Login and registration is free to our online e-learning website
<https://www.physicsmodels.com>

We offer a great facility to potential new users to verify the contents of the courses offered by the company, even prior to committing to login and registration or making any payment. Even a casual visitor to our website Home Page is enabled to view all of the following transparent process:

- a) Sample videos are displayed
- b) Sample images drawn from various aspects of physics are displayed
- c) Detailed chapters are listed regarding course content
- d) Detailed sub-contents or topics under each chapter is displayed
- e) Awards won by the company for innovation pertaining to physicsmodels
- f) Endorsements from a sample set of students and users

Therefore, after evaluating all of the above inputs, user is free to decide to login and register. Login and registration is also provided free of cost.

Subsequent to login, user may further decide to make a payment to access the course content at any time. After making payment, refunds cannot be granted by the company. Immediate access is granted to registered users to access the purchased chapters and view all the contents. It is infact akin to a software license.

Downloadable software products are exempt from returns.

If you are not able to view the relevant course, you are requested to check local technical issues at your end such as internet speeds, personal device errors and so on.
